2018-2019 Awards

Listed in the Total Awards section is your total eligibility for financial aid for the academic year based on a thorough review of your application materials. For a breakdown of these awards by type of fund, review the Summary sections. If no awards are listed, you didn't qualify for aid from Rochester. If you would like to reduce or decline a portion of this offer, please notify your counselor via email of your requested changes.

If you are aware that you'll be receiving an outside scholarship, notify your financial aid counselor, so that the funding can be incorporated into your aid package. Send an email to your counselor including the name of the organization, the name of the scholarship, the amount, and if the award is renewable in future years. If you have a letter from the organization with the details of the award, forward that as well.

Undergraduates: All undergraduate students who apply for federal aid are eligible to receive a federal direct unsubsidized loan. To determine your eligibility, go to the Standard Forms screen and review the Federal Loan Eligibility for Undergraduates document. Follow the instructions listed on the Unsubsidized Loan Application screen (found on the Applications screen) to formally request your loan. If you don't see the Unsubsidized Loan Application screen, you aren't eligible to request the additional federal loan.

To review the University of Rochester Consumer Disclosure Information, go to <https://enrollment.rochester.edu/student-consumer-information/>.

To review the estimated cost of attendance for the 2018-2019 academic year, review the Undergraduate Financial Aid Handbook 1819, found on the Standard Forms screen in FAOnline. Your actual cost of attendance may vary from the estimates provided based on fees associated with your academic program, your housing assignment, and your travel expenses from home to campus. Keep in mind that undergraduate students who commute from home or live off campus during the academic year typically have a cost of attendance significantly less than a student living on campus due to differences in room and board costs.
